Monday and Tuesday were days of extreme activity for the stockmen. Cattle were washed, horns trimmed, polished and hides made sleek and shiny, ready for the fast finishing touches of show perfection before the animals are led into the ring. Hours of rubbing and polishing has put the bloom on the animals.

Down in the Junior club tent a staff of clerks under the leadership of Chairman J. A. Craig, were working full tilt to keep up with the club entries. Three tents are housing the Junior livestock with a fourth as club headquarters.

All the energy in fitting stock for the show ring was not in the main barns. The hogs and calves were at the brush, rag and "yellow grease" Tuesday.

It will be a great Junior club show. The pig club entries will be judged Wednesday and the calves Thursday.

135 POUND CALF BORN ON HOWARD FARM, JANESVILLE

Another heavy calf was reported Tuesday by William Howard, Jr., Janesville, when a grade Holstein cow dropped a bull calf weighing 135 pounds at birth. The calf is sired by a blooded bull.

FINE C. T. A. SHOW AT JANESVILLE FAIR

Janesville fair visitors are urged to inspect the grade cow and cow testing association exhibits arranged largely through the efforts of W. J. Deacon, Beloit.

The value of using blooded sires of production merit in building and developing a herd is clearly shown in the demonstration on Holsteins, Guernseys and Milking Shorthorns.

The Holstein fair is the only one in Wisconsin in which premiums are offered on high grades as well as registered cattle. The grades are judged on per cent on known production figures and 40 per cent on type.

Association testers will conduct a demonstration on the production of milk during the week ending August 10 at the leading dairymen of the county.

SEVERAL SALES MADE ON BLOODED CATTLE

R. W. Lamb and Son recently sold two registered Milking Shorthorn cows to George Kallston, Chelonia, Ill.

The three year old Holstein bull of Howard Miller, Janesville, a son of Iowa Star Olie, and a prize winner at the last two state fairs, has been sold to Jefferson county breeders. The bull will be shown with the Jefferson county herd.

Another sale of blooded cattle from the county is being made for a bull calf from the Milking Shorthorn herd of the Walter Little estate, a half brother to Telluride's Fame, at one time owned by James Hadden and the calf is an outstanding show prospect.

COLLEGE HAS STAND AT COUNTY FAIRS

A "service station" will be opened by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture at some of the county fairs this season, according to J. A. James, assistant dean.

The station will distribute bulletins and other helps available from the college. A representative will be on duty to answer questions or arrange to have them answered by a specialist at the college. He will also interview students who are planning to enter college this fall and their parents. James says that everyone make use of the station while they have the resources of the college so close at hand.

While arrangements have not been completed for all the fairs at which the station will be opened, plans have been made for the service at Elkhorn, Racine Center, Monroe, La Crosse, Watrous, and the state fair.

SEALING MACHINE HAS WIDE MARKET

Bread Wrapping Device Produced Here Is Sold Throughout U. S.

The invention of Paul R. Colvin, president of the Colvin Baking company, an automatic bread wrapper sealing machine, is now being used generally by bakers throughout the country.

The sealer was invented in 1912 by Mr. Colvin as the result of experiments designed to increase production at the local plant. The machine was used here for some time until its fame spread and it proved so successful that it was decided to put it on the market.

The Colvin machine seals wax paper wrappers on hand wrapped loaves on both ends and on the bottom, making an airtight package. From 500 loaves of hand-wrapped bread can be sealed on this machine in one hour. The machine will seal single as well as twin loaves.

All Colvin sealers are electrically heated and seal any size loaf from six to 12 inches, while the larger type model will handle loaves up to 18 inches.

A sealer can be regulated to the desired width by means of a convenient adjusting chain. A more recent use of the machine has been in sealing ice cream cartons.

The machine is being manufactured at 12 South Division street. Orders have been shipped to all parts of this country and to some foreign nations.

Red Cross Asked to Send Gifts

Central Division of the Red Cross has asked the Rock County chapter to accept a quota of 40 Christmas bags to be sent to service men in Hawaii. Walter Davidson, in charge of Central Division said in his letter to Miss Hattie Allen, secretary here, "There are men stationed at lonely outposts outside of the United States doing their duty. They pass a lonely existence and to lighten their loneliness, the American Red Cross, through the beneficence of its chapters, wants to have an inexpensive package sent to each of these men."

The bags, made of some bright colored cloth, 10 by 10 inches, when finished, should be made in time to arrive in San Francisco before Sept. 15. About 15 of these bags have been promised by Mrs. Milton Johnson, Rock Prairie and Lima Center branches, leaving 25 to be furnished by Janesville.

On Sewer Inspection

A. G. Sayre, Milton, has been engaged by the city as inspector on sanitary sewer main construction.

Better Get Your Tail-Light Fixed, Is Police Warning

A determined war on motorists driving cars without proper lights has been started by local police and County Motorists Patrolman Merton Miller. Three violators of the light laws were fined by Judge Mixfield in municipal court Monday morning.

The practice of driving with only one headlight or without tail lights must be stopped, according to Chief Charles Keshnaw. Officers have been instructed to arrest negligent drivers.

"We have received numerous complaints within the past few weeks," Chief Keshnaw said, "and drivers are warned that arrests and court fines will result if more are not taken."

Scores of machines are being driven on the county highways without proper lights. County Patrolman Miller declared, and the increase in accident cases is believed to be largely owing to this condition.

The law is going to be enforced. Miller said, "Particular care should be taken by drivers operating on the roads without tail lights."

CHILDREN URGED TO TAKE UP TESTS NOW

Importance of boys and girls at the playgrounds who desire to take badge tests prescribed by the Playground Recreational association, of doing so at once is being emphasized by Director Arthur Wheeler. Children's tests are scheduled during the next two weeks. The badges will not be received here until after the season is closed. It is feared. Prevention ceremonies are planned if tests can be finished up soon enough.

Eighty-five passed the three tests last year, and those who took one at that time will not be permitted to retake it, but must take a higher degree. Instruction is given by the directors at the various grounds, and tests are given in groups, with the director present.

In addition to the badge, five points toward the championship banner is given for each person passing one of the tests, and it is expected that they will have considerable influence this year.

Among other information, each notice contains the advice that the penalties are "During January—none. Taxes paid during February, add 2 per cent. Taxes paid during March, add 4 per cent." The 1924 tax roll opens for collection on Jan. 2, 1925.

OLD PARTIES SAY BOB-WONT GATHER WHOLE LABOR VOTE

cratic president candidate, had been declared fair to labor at all times. He had refused to call out the militia in labor disputes which he thought could be settled by mediation, and which proved to be the case.

The voting laborers listened to some of the advice given them apparently, but went to the polls in all their might and main for the republican ticket.

At labor headquarters it was pointed out Monday that while the second labor leaders have been for La Follette since the beginning of his proposed candidacy, the rank and file of labor which had expressed itself had manifested a decided liking for William Gibbs McAdoo. This was particularly true of the railroad men. The Brotherhood officers had been working for La Follette long before the democratic national convention in New York City had been called to order. It was well known to all who had probed the sentiment of the workers themselves, however, that they were for McAdoo almost to a man.

Senator La Follette had accepted the nomination nevertheless before Mr. McAdoo had dropped out of the running at Madison Square Garden. The railroad brotherhood chiefs therefore would have been in rather an embarrassing position had a sudden switch in sentiment carried the Californian over the top for the democratic nomination.

What's Your En Line
These facts were stressed Monday to stress the point made by the democrats and republicans that there is division this year as always in the ranks of labor and that the vote will be apportioned among the various presidential candidate along natural lines.

Naturally the labor vote is regarded as much as the woman vote has been. There was some perturbation when women first were enfranchised to vote for presidential electors. But the politicians from the states where women had been voting for state officers for a great many years stilled all fears by saying the female vote would follow the male vote, dividing itself in such a manner as to cause no particular upset. The women of the country have proved that they do not and will not vote en bloc. Labor, however, never has voted in that manner, and the old party leaders profess to believe it can be so delivered this year.

Progressives claim otherwise. They claim the situation is different from any which has confronted labor in the past. They say the present movement and the present candidates are calculated to appeal far more effectively to labor than was the Roosevelt-Johnson third party ticket in 1912. Labor, it is insisted, has a policy point this year. Most of the time it has had what the La Follette followers call a "choice of evils" as between the republican and democratic tickets. In such circumstances it was natural for labor to divide along more or less partisan lines. The progressive ticket has been endorsed as a combination of a "progressive independent republican and a progressive independent democrat." Therefore, it is argued, that both republican and democratic members of labor unions can vote for it and still retain a semblance at least of their old party affiliations.

The republicans and the democrats, meantime, are going forward with their plans to "split" the labor vote by the usual time-honored formulas. Special bureaus are being organized to conduct the campaign among the workers.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Unloading latex for U. S. Royal Cord Balloon Tires from tank cars to U. S. Rubber Company Tank Cars—New York Harbor

What Latex means to U. S. Balloon Tires

NOTICE a balloon tire flatten under the weight of the car and you realize how great a responsibility for combined flexibility and strength low air-pressure construction throws on the tire manufacturer.

When the balloon tire was first being considered the makers of U. S. Royal Cord Balloon Tires had already developed the Latex Process—and patented it.

They had the supply of latex—liquid raw rubber—on their own plantations—and the methods for bringing it to this country.

So U. S. Royal Cord Balloon Tires are built of Latex-treated cords—and have strength and flexibility obtainable by no other method.

Combined with longer service, U. S. Royal Cord Balloon Tires have the advantages of accurate balance and a tread scientifically designed for low air-pressure.

Consequently their tractive and anti-skid qualities meet every requirement of safety and ease in handling at all speeds.

MISTRESS WILDING:

A ROMANCE, BY RAFAEL SABATINI.

(Author of "Baroness de Menthon," "Capt. in Blood," "Fortune's Fool," etc.)

And it was his fault, his fault, his fault, that he was the traitor to whom perhaps a score of men owed their deaths at that moment. He had failed to keep watch as he had undertaken. His fault it was—his fault it was, this villain who sat there smiling at his ease and smiling at his pipe.

At a blow Richard dashed the thing from his companion's mouth and fingers.

Trenchard looked up startled. "What the devil?" he began. "It is your fault, your fault!" cried Richard, his eyes blazing, his lips livid. "It was you who lured me hither."

Trenchard stared at him in blank surprise. "Now, what a plague is this?" he asked, and brought Richard to his senses by awaking in him the instinct of self-preservation.

How could he explain his meaning without betraying his hand? and surely that were a folly, now that the others were no doubt disposed of. Let him, rather, bethink himself of his own safety. Trenchard looked at him keenly, with well-assumed intent to read what might be passing in his mind, then rose, paid for the wine, and expressed his intention of going forth to inquire into these strange matters that were happening in Bridgewater.

Meanwhile, those volleys fired in Mr. Newington's ear had caused—as well may be conceived—an agitated interruption of the superb feast. Mr. Newington had spread for his guests and invited guests. The Duke had for some days been going in fear of his life, for already he had been fired at more than once. He was anxious to earn the price at which his head was valued; instantly he surmised that whatever that firing might mean, it indicated some attempt to surprise him. A few gentlemen who attended him.

The whole company came instantly to its feet, and Colonel Wado stepped to the window and threw open the shutters for the night was very warm. The Duke turned for explanation to his host; the trader, however, pressed him to be entirely unable to offer any. He was pale and his limbs were visibly trembling, but then his agitation was most natural. His wife and daughter, however, at that moment, in their alarm, entering the room unceremoniously, in spite of the august presence, to inquire into the meaning of this thing, and to reassure themselves that their father and his illustrious guests were safe.

From the windows they could observe a stir in the garden below. Black shadows of men flitted to and fro, and a loud, rich voice was heard calling to them to take cover, that they were betrayed. The first shot or livid flame blazed along the summit of the low wall, and a second volley of musketry rang out, succeeded by cries and screams from the assailed and the shouts of the assailers who were now pouring into the garden through the battered doorway, and over the wall.

For some moments steel rang on steel, and pistol-shots cracked here and there to the accompaniment of voices, raised some in anger, some in pain. But it was soon over, and a comparative stillness succeeded. A voice called up from the darkness under the windows to know if Mr. Newington was safe. There had been a plot to take him; but the anti-buccarders had been ambushed in their turn, and not a man remained. The Duke, who was hardly exact for under a laurel bush, scarce daring to breathe, lay Sir Rowland Blake, livid with fear and fury, and bleeding from a rapier scratch in the cheek, but otherwise unhurt.

In the room above, Monmouth, sunk wearily into his chair upon hearing of the design, they had been against his life. Deep, bitter melancholy enveloped his spirit. Lord Grey's first thoughts flew to the man he most disliked, the one man missing from those who had been bidden to accompany him. His Majesty, whose absence had already formed the subject of comment, Grey remembered his being before the council that same evening, and his undisciplined resentment of the reproaches levelled against him.

"Where is Mr. Wilding?" he asked suddenly, his voice dominating the din of talk that filled the room. "We hold the explanation of his absence."

Monmouth looked up quickly, his beautiful eyes ineffably sad, his weak mouth drooping at the corners. Wado turned to confront Grey.

"Your lordship does not suggest that Mr. Wilding can have a hand in this?"

"Appearances would seem to point in that direction," answered Grey, and in his wicked heart he almost hoped it might be so.

"Then appearances speak truth for once," came a bitter, ringing voice.

They turned, and there on the threshold stood Mr. Wilding. He heard he had come upon them. He was bareheaded and carried his drawn sword. There was blood upon it, and there was blood on the lace that half concealed the hand that

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. G. H. writes:

"I have derived so much good from your advice to others that I have at last decided to come for some relief."

"My baby is just one year old, weighs 25 pounds and is healthy in every respect. There is just one thing I have tried to do in constipation. I feed him cereals each morning, give him water, fruit juices and vegetables. Since he was seven months old, I have tried to train him to use the nursery chair. If I do not give him a cathartic of some sort he is not regular. I have given him mineral oil before going to bed. This makes his stools very hard. Do you think it harmful? What could I do to make his bowels move without the use of medicines or suppositories? Do you think the milk causes it? I only feed it and dilute with water."

Answer:

The baby is getting a little more than his age and weight would call for. Here is a better balanced formula: Twenty ounces of milk, water and three to four tablespoons of sugar. Put in six bottles. I am sending you the leaflet.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

R. P.—It will help to clear your skin of blackheads if you take a full, warm bath every day; keeping the pores cleared over the whole body relieves the pores of the complexion so that they become refined. As you have done a great deal of experimenting to get rid of the pimples without success, why not consult the doctor? The cause for them lies in your system, and unless you know just what causes the condition you cannot help it.

Anxious—When it comes to a deep massage of the facial and neck muscles, there should be a competent masseur, as harm can come through ignorant manipulations. A massage done only with the finger tips when feeding the skin with a cream cannot be injurious, even though there is no knowledge of the physiology of the facial or neck muscles. An important point is to do the work so that all muscles are lifted, as the tendency to impaired muscles is to drop.

An ardent—A massage made from one part white of egg to six parts water will do for a special weekly treatment when there is much sagging of the facial muscles. It should remain on the skin for about a half hour before removing.

Humpy—If you are compelled to bleach your skin continually to keep the freckles from showing it would be preferable to have the freckles, as excessive bleaching will dry out the skin. Freckles are rarely unbecoming as they make the skin look clearer by contrast; they also indicate a healthy condition with most people.

Mazure—Plenty of sleep, fresh air, with a moderate amount of exercise will do much toward filling out the hollows in the face and increasing the freshness of the skin. It will help much if you massage, using a good cold cream, one made from the vegetable oils. Cocoa butter fattens but it should never be used on the face or upper part of the chest, if there is the least tendency to superfluous hair.

L. W.—There is no harm resulting from shaving under the arms. If your legs are large because of fat, exercise will reduce them.

Vivian—Clip off all split ends of hair, and top using the heated irons. Instead of curling by using the combs, arranging the hair in waves, dampening it before adjusting the combs so that they push the hair up into the curls, and then dry. After the hair dries and the combs are removed, you will find that all of it will fall into very soft irregular waves, and the hair will be as natural and "permed" as you could desire.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

A LOST LOVE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I went with a boy a while back whom I liked very well. I introduced him to a neighbor who came over for something. We had planned to go riding and had to invite her to go although she was not the kind of a girl I wanted to go with. She went and sat on his lap when she knew he intended to go with him. This made me feel very badly. This boy went with me a few more times and then he went with her. He is going with her sister now. Would you tell me if my friendship or not? I like him real well.

THANK YOU.

No, I would not advise you to try to regain his friendship. He loves you and now the only thing for you to do is to be pleasant when you meet but not noticeably eager for his company again.

Dinner Stories

The police physician was called to the station-house for a prisoner, who had been arrested and brought to the station-house for drunkenness. After a short examination, the physician addressed the policeman who had made the arrest.

"This fellow is not suffering from the effects of alcohol. He has been drugged."

The policeman was greatly disturbed, and spoke fitfully: "I'm thinking you're right, sir. I dragged him all the way to the station."

The Kentucky mountaineer was tugging alone in the big row, his head bowed, when a motor car came tearing around the bend behind him, and he saw that he had been scummed to his feet by the scum in the opposite direction from what he had been before. At that moment another car came tipping around a corner from the other way.

"Look out there!" yelled the driver. "Goodnight!" howled the hickster, and he was gone. The same car. "Are you going to come back and run over me again?"

The teacher was about to give her class a lesson on some of the most famous myths and legends of the past. Before beginning, however, she thought she would ask the scholars a question to see what ideas they had. If any, about the subject. "Now, can anyone tell me what a myth is?" she asked.

A hearty rounder was raised and a voice exclaimed: "Please, miss, it's a female moth."

MIGRATORY wild birds are on the decrease in the United States. So states Secretary of Agriculture, Wallace in a bulletin just issued. The newspapers of the country. The secretary points out that while thousands of communications received since the beginning of the season have indicated an increase in the number of wild fowl, on the contrary there has been a drop in the number. The birds did increase greatly in numbers for some years after the act went into effect, he states, but they have been falling off in number in the past few years. The decrease of the migratory birds is due to the fact that the birds are now concentrated in existing areas untouched by the drainage operations that have destroyed such a large portion of their former homes. The department is constantly collecting data on the conditions in order to determine its action.

REDUCTIONS in tax limits recommended by the national outdoor recreation conference at Washington some months ago are not being put into effect by the department of agriculture. However, the department is now carrying on an investigation to determine whether a waterfowl increase or decrease in the United States. This is interesting information to the hunters of Wisconsin, for the department is getting in touch with the conservation associations, game associations, sportsmen's clubs, state conservation departments, game wardens, and other logical survey and its scientific observers.

IT is quite likely that a cut in the tax limit will be made next year, though doubtful if anything is done to affect hunting next fall. The federal authorities are making an intensive study through their questionnaires to determine the present status of migratory birds and the condition of their breeding, their feeding and their resting places. The data will be given careful consideration by the department. Secretary Wallace announced, as well as by its advisory board, and will be available for the use of the national outdoor recreation conference. He says: "The department wishes to make clear that it is fully aware to the importance of keeping in constant touch with migratory bird conditions and that it will not hesitate to take any step needed and which lies in its power to insure the safety of wild fowl and the perpetuation of wild fowl hunting in the United States."

DIAMOND SPARKLES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

These are great days for the alphas in the American league steppes chase. While New York, Detroit and Washington sap each other's vitality with sport and young men, the remaining five clubs slowly but steadily reduce the gaps which separate them from the leaders and from one another. As the Yankees again bounded to the front, the Browns advanced to within three games and a half of the senators. The Yankees took the lead in the second place, distances Washington by half a game. Between the fourth place Browns and the fifth place Athletics only 10 games intervene. The Athletics one of the late-inning rallies for which they are famous, the Yankees from one another. As the Yankees were tied by the jungle cats in the ninth and ultimately won by a score of 9-8 in the 11th. Ruth's 34th homer was the headline performance. St. Louis made a two-out rally over Washington and six wins in seven starts by capturing the second game of the series 5-1. Winograd pitched in his usual invincible form. After getting the Athletics poor pitching in his system in the first inning, Messinger, Cleveland's second from Saginaw, Mich., recuperated and held Boston safe while his team mates hammered out a 14 to 5 victory. Both games of the New York-Chicago double bill were decided on the pitching mound. Bentley pitched the Athletics to a close 5 to 1 conquest in the opener and Blake returned the compliment in the final by a 5-2 count. Wilbur Cooper's team went to sleep for Brooklyn and Pittsburgh went home with the bacon by a margin of 5-3. Cincinnati opened its series in Philadelphia with a 9-3 win. St. Louis landed the rudderless Braves there daily drubbing to the tune of 4 to 1.

103 Starters Listed; Tracks Are Drying Fast

WEDNESDAY RACES SHOULD BE CLOSE, HORSE ZOZZO SOLD

With the blazing sun of Tuesday drying out both the half mile and the mile tracks rapidly and the announcement that there will be 103 starters, the harness meeting of "The Lexington of the South" should prove as one in which the competition will be exceptionally keen.

The race program starts at 1:30 Wednesday with purses for the first day totalling $3,000, the largest in the history of the Janesville fair. Tuesday, there were 43 starters listed, which assures the spectators of three races with plenty of thrills. Purses for the full meeting total $7,000, for the nine events.

Trucks Fast. Despite the heavy rains of Sunday night and Monday, the tracks should be faster than ever before if the sunshine and the heat of Tuesday continue throughout the day and Wednesday morning. Workmen with tractors, drags and other implements were busy during the day turning over the soil to permit it to dry as fast as possible.

The tracks are beautiful. Smooth, level and springy, they lend to the horses every advantage for the mile and the half mile races. The races are so attractive, that the prediction is made without hesitation by John Schumman, secretary of the fair, that the meeting will exceed that of the past.

Work on Road. Wednesday's events are the 2:18, 2:20, 2:22, 2:24, 2:26, 2:28, 2:30, 2:32, 2:34, 2:36, 2:38, 2:40, 2:42, 2:44, 2:46, 2:48, 2:50, 2:52, 2:54, 2:56, 2:58, 3:00, 3:02, 3:04, 3:06, 3:08, 3:10, 3:12, 3:14,
